Campus scenes depict Jordan's flavor as well as the contents of the 1982 Trailblazer.

1. Reggie Bernard shows the determination of the cross-country runner.
2. Latrice Johnson and Carolyn Stephens dine Cline Square style.
3. Rachel Gallardo and Mary Shrum ask "Mr. Panther" Ozzie Gonzales to comment.
4. Accounting claims Patty Palmer's undivided attention.

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts.
William Shakespeare
As You Like It
Act II, Scene 7, Line iii

Shakespeare's play As You Like It alludes to the concept of life as one enormous play with the world as its stage. Although Renaissance in origin, this analogy applies to us today as well. Daily we assume different roles, depending upon our audience at the particular moment. And whether we are acting as friend or acquaintance, spectator or participant, student or teacher, Jordan High serves us as the microcosm of the great world stage on which we live. Here at Jordan we are known primarily as students, yet we also function as athletes, cheerleaders, musicians, club officers and members, and friends. We unconsciously switch parts, depending upon which "act" it is, and through our performances we learn and change as the scenario unfolds.

5. Students settle in for another session in Neil VanSteenbergen's "Psychology of Love and Marriage" course.
6. Julie Myers shows winning volleyball form as Debbie Valentovich stands ready to assist.
7. Mr. DuBois and Ms. Breskovich show up in elegance for Homecoming's "Salute to Music."

Since the day we were born, we have played many different parts in life. In babyhood it was the helpless infant crying for attention. Not too much later it was the "bratty" child who refuses to do as he or she is told; and at the age of five or six, we were cast in the role of student for the first time. As we grew and the stage on which we performed became ever larger, we found ourselves being leaders, followers, workers, artists. In an ever-changing world, we have adapted to the different roles that circumstance has thrust upon each of us. School has provided one stage on which to act out these parts and to begin to pursue other roles that may interest us and serve us in the future.

1. Salesman Ricky Romero tempts Becky Aguinaldo with cotton candy at Homecoming booth.
2. Liza Gurule and Maureen Mackin appear to be sharing secrets.
3. Posing in their "Salute to Music" Homecoming costumes are Antoinette Ralph, Opal Davis, Marquette Rogers, Luann Rodgers, Cynthia Brown, and Becky Fields.
4. Patrick Donnerson awaits the signal to start drumming.
5. Carla Copeland epitomizes the serious-minded student as she crosses campus with class folders.

The stars of the Jordan show must arrive on the set by 8:20 a.m., and they make varied entrances and exits. Some are fortunate enough to have their own cars or have connections with someone who does. Others ride motorcycles or bicycles or patronize the big yellow or blue limousines, while the less fortunate are reduced to traveling on foot. The grand finale of the day is, of course, the exit after that last class, which is usually performed more joyfully than the early morning arrival.

1. R.J. McNally hurriedly heads from the bus towards first period, urged on by Mr. DuBois' new policy on tardies.
2. Mrs. Fran Anderson and Mrs. Sandy McGregor portray "The Village Singer" and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart in keeping with Homecoming's musical theme.
3. Pantherette Co-Captain Sally Shrum and members of the football team look on with pride as Jordanites express their support.
4. Mike Cardwell gets ready for the ride home.
5. Neil Erickson hops in the car to head for lunch.
6. A Jordan coed makes the "Datsun dash" into the back lot.
7. This group of students appear to be resolving the eternal question of who gets to "ride shotgun"

Both on film and in writing this year's Trailblazer captures Jordan students and staff in their many roles, compiling a script of such classic performances that someday we may look through this book and say, "All the world is a stage."

1. Greta Wolff, Chris Copeland, and Lisa Vera combine conversation with crossing campus.
2. Rallies bring out the spectators.
3. Johnny Emanuel, Ron Harris, and Marion Clark mug for the camera at Homecoming.
4. Jordan's marquee signals the end of another school year.
5. Mr. Dixon appears to be headed straight for an oblivious Rudy Torres and Donna Evitts.

Seniors Favor Rick James, Journey, Neil

Polled in a Trailblazer "Senior Survey" members of the Class of 1982 rated Rick James as their favorite concert artist, Journey as their favorite musical group, and Neil Van Steenberg as their favorite teacher. They also indicated their preferences in television shows, movies, hangouts, restaurants, and songs.

These choices were: tv show, "M.A.S.H."; movie, "Raiders of the Lost Ark"; hang-out, Round Table Pizza; restaurant, Bobby McGee's, Velvet Turtle, Black Angus; song, "Get it Up." Asked how he felt about being mixed in with this group of choices, Neil responded, "I'm excited! I feel special — very special. The jury has rendered a verdict — and I'm honored!"

1. Terry Ramsey and My Diep consume cafeteria calories.
2. Vernon Boyd appears to have entered his second childhood.

Being a Senior Has Many Meanings That Affect Past, Present, Future

Being a senior is a period of both joy and sadness. It is a time of looking forward to such events as the prom and graduation while reminiscing about the first two years of high school life and where they've gone. It requires self-confidence and determination. This is one point in our lives when decisions must be a key factor in determining what will become of us tomorrow. Being a senior is also like getting a promotion: with the prestige and privileges come more responsibilities.

As seniors we receive more respect but also more pressure from both family and friends. We begin to see that the old goals we have set for ourselves have now been achieved and that we must establish some new ones to guide us as we venture out to meet the larger and more complex world on the other side of the fence. We begin to understand the value of our experiences in the last few years of school and start to realize that we will treasure them in the future.

Being a senior, then, does not only mean the prom or graduation; it also means twelve years of accomplishment, or, as Mary Boyle put it, "Being a senior is being able to say you've survived."

1. Valerie Rivers looks on as this year's Homecoming ceremonies come to a close.
2. Jeannie Crane, Carol Ashby, and Ricardo Smith listen attentively as Neil shares general ideas about love and marriage.
3. Niecy Bryant contemplates the pressures of being a senior.

The curtain closes now on the class of '82's performance at Jordan. The applause dies away, and we are left to think back. Surely within the last three years, memories of classrooms, assemblies, and rallies cannot compete in importance with the lasting relationships that have developed. As Kristen Eno plainly puts it, "Twelve years of schooling have taught me the value of friendship."

Twins See Double Often

Denise and Debbie Garrison know what it's like to "see double" a lot of the time. They say being twins is fun because it's different, but it's "not-so-fun" always having a shadow and always getting the same things. They're not ready to split up yet, though, since both plan to attend Long Beach City after graduation. Is it true that twins react to things exactly the same way much of the time? Said Debbie: "When one gets sick, the other one usually gets sick, too, and we like lots of the same things, like foods and restaurants." The Garrison twins admit "going along with it" when someone mistakes one for the other and conclude that being so close as twins is "kind of like being married."

Five Join Guardian Angels

Five Jordan seniors chose to become involved this year in the Guardian Angels. Originating in New York and initiated in Long Beach in 1981, it is a group of young men dedicated to making city streets safer for law-abiding citizens. Unarmed and not affiliated with any law enforcement agency, the Guardian Angels aim to deter crime and violence by their presence. James Bray, Bruce Coleman, Drexel Cunningham, Darren Moreland, and Andy Scott all agreed that their sole purpose in joining the Angels was crime prevention. Four of the five reported that the most dangerous situation they've been in involved confrontations with gang members. In response to the idea that they might be viewed negatively as a sort of vigilante group, Moreland said, "Anyone who says that doesn't know us." Added Coleman, "They don't know what's going on out there. They've never walked the streets." The five are proud of their participation in the Angels and feel they are making a positive contribution to the community.

Which is which? Is Denise Garrison looking at herself and Debbie Garrison or vice versa?

Woodruff Keeps Going

Glen Woodruff, a victim of cerebral palsy, has set an example of courage and determination for Jordan students. Confined for some time to a wheelchair, he made a conscious choice to extend his limited physical abilities and to walk whenever and wherever he could. The senior with the ready smile knows what it's like to literally fall down and have to pick himself up again, but he just won't quit. Asked about what keeps him at it, he responded: "I get tired, but I keep going because in the future I want to be out walking, doing something with my life." Woodruff expects to attend Long Beach City College for an A.A. degree in art and then move on to Cal State Long Beach.

Joining the L.B. Guardian Angels were Andy Scott, James Bray, Darren Moreland, and Bruce Coleman.

Academics

Panthers Quest For Knowledge In Jordan's Academic World

Academically, as well as physically and socially, Jordan's panthers have proven that they are among the best stage players in the world. Day after day, these "actors" busy the hallways and rush to their classes. There, supporting actors known as "teachers" guide them in their quest for more knowledge and a chance to expand. Up and coming doctors, lawyers, and engineers absorb important information from those who, through experience, have found out what it takes to be a success in this complex world. They share ideas, interests, feelings. Then the bell rings and the players all go their separate ways. One student dashes off to the 650 building for some fun in P.E., while another strolls over to the science department to try to comprehend the ideas of Newton, Kepler, Copernicus, and Galileo. Still another heads for the English department where he or she attempts to grasp the Shakespearean style of writing. Altogether, the academics chapter of Jordan's presentation, "All the World's a Stage," is as unique as the individuals that take part in it. It is a section about the many wonderful people that spend days, months, even years preparing for that magic moment when someone says, "A star is born."

DuBois Heads Staff, Makes Policy Changes

Joining the Jordan cast of characters this year is a new executive producer, Mr. Jack DuBois, the principal. Although new to the students he is not at all new to the school. He worked at Jordan in earlier years as Assistant and Vice-Principal. In the meantime he has served as principal at both Poly and Millikan High Schools.

Mr. DuBois is often seen walking around making certain that everything moves along smoothly. His other responsibilities include overseeing the school's curriculum and instruction, its community relations and counseling services, the development and utilization of school facilities, and supervision of personnel, plus the evaluation of all probationary teachers. Mr. DuBois has established a Principal's Student Advisory Council and has introduced a number of new policies, such as the revised tardy and truancy policy and the policy on class participation.

Known for being anywhere and everywhere on campus, Principal Jack DuBois is seen here catching up on paperwork, chatting with secretary Cheryl Erickson, sharing a sidelines moment with teacher Jonna Robinson, meeting with Student Advisory Council members Tommy Ford and Traci Tidmore, and conferring with teacher Ron Massey.

Administrators

Assist Principal

Assisting Mr. DuBois in his leadership role this year were Vice-Principal Bob Dixon and Assistant Principals Elizabeth Polski, Mary McCants and Gary Graves. Each was responsible for different specialized departments. Mr. Dixon was in charge of instructional supervision in the business, mathematics, and physical education (male staff) departments. Meanwhile, Mrs. Polski supervised the areas of physical education (female staff), social studies, special education, and science, plus the senior class. Mrs. McCants dealt with driver's training, foreign language, general studies, home economics, and the junior class. Mr. Graves handled the art, English/reading, industrial, military science, and music departments, and also the sophomore class.

Mr. Dixon shares a serious moment with student Shawn Wohlt and aide Pamela Goodman.

Counselors Assist Jordanites in Variety of Ways

Jordan's cast of counselors, headed by Mr. Carl Wulfsberg, is responsible for the educational planning, vocational counseling, testing, placement in classes, personal counseling, and assistance with financial aids of each and every Panther. In addition, they assist students in applying for scholarships and awards. The newest member of this staff is Ms.

Gloria Telles. This year she counseled students whose names begin with the letters L through Q and had the duty of representing counselors on the Curriculum Committee.

Specialists Give Major Support To Total School Program

There is more to a school than just a principal, vice-principals, and counselors. For example, an activities specialist is needed to supervise the overall student activities. At Jordan this role has been assumed by Mr. Jim Keck, whose duties include assessing the student body budget, approving clubs, taking charge of Student Council, preparing for elections, maintaining the master calendar, and promoting school publicity. Ms. Helen Miller, the nurse, is responsible for keeping an accurate health record for every student. She provides first aid to those unfortunate enough to somehow get hurt in P.E. or somewhere else on campus and issues the necessary physical tests required before driver's training. The librarian and media center specialist is Ms. Linda Gill. She works with students and teachers in setting up class visits and provides instruction in library education and reading advice. In addition, she records programs for TV projection into classrooms and assists in preparing audiovisual programming of film rehearsals, games, and sports practices.

Clerical Staff Provides Variety of Services

Readmitting students, keeping accurate records of courses taken and grades achieved, getting out a daily bulletin — these are just a few of the many services provided by Jordan's clerical staff. Ms. Diane McDowell, for example, is directly responsible to the principal, which entails large amounts of school correspondence, making sure that teachers complete important records such as emergency cards, and overseeing the assignment of substitute teachers, to cover just a few duties. In the attendance office up-to-date records must be kept on students' absences, while the counselors' require extensive files on student programs and course credits. All help make Jordan run smoothly.

Many Contribute To Good Atmosphere

A modern high school consists of much more than students, teachers, and books. Many services are involved in providing the best possible atmosphere for learning. At Jordan the staff assistants play a vital role in keeping the hallways free from unnecessary traffic and noise, in making sure students are where they belong at any given time, and in seeing that the campus is secure from outside intrusions. Maintaining a beautiful campus environment is the role of the custodians and groundskeepers, who continue to make Jordan one of the most attractive schools in the district. And, of course, the cafeteria is daily expected to provide efficient lunch services. All of these groups contribute to the positive Jordan atmosphere.

Aspiring Artists Find Needed Atmosphere

Just as Florence, Italy, was an inspiring city for great artists, so the art department is to Jordan's future Rembrandts and Michaelangelos. Headed by Ms. Sandy Lucas, the department offers a variety of crafts, ranging from pottery and jewelry to candle making and papier mache. Ms. Lucas also handles the advertising art and crafts classes. In addition, calligraphy, drawing, and painting are offered under the supervision of Mr. Edward Kennedy, a new faculty member. Often, the department's proteges have their works showcased around campus — in the Administration Building, the 800 building, and the Media Center. Some also participated in local competitions outside of Jordan. Whether through a lump of clay, a piece of wood, or some other medium, the art department provides important opportunities for self-expression and for developing one's skills in this field.

Equipment Helps Students Prepare for Expanding Fields

The business education department offers a wide variety of business programs that prepare the student for entry level positions in business and for personal use. For example, the new word processor, apple computer, varityper, and memory typewriter prepare students to move into the rapidly expanding fields of computerized equipment. Students are provided training on the computers in the office practice, vocational typing, and accounting classes. In addition to new learning experiences in the business department, there are four new teachers: Mr. Jose Campo, Ms. Nancy Cunningham, Ms. Carol Drake, and Mr. Ron Hamamoto. The department is under the chairmanship of Ms. Carolyn Price.

All Students Must Meet Requirements in English

English is a requirement that everyone must fulfill. Elective English, headed by Ms. Fran Anderson, offers juniors and seniors a variety of classes to choose from: four types of literature, drama, film analysis, grammar and composition, journalism, creative writing, and advanced placement English. The sophomore division, directed by Ms. Teledo Johnson, offers tenth graders a foundation needed before taking any of the elective courses as well as a chance to fulfill a high school requirement. For all grade levels a writing lab is used to give extra help to those students whose skills are below average.

Foreign Language Is Valuable Future Asset

There are many reasons for learning a second language besides fulfilling a college entrance requirement. The Jordan foreign language department meets the demand by offering English as a Second Language, two years of German, four of French, and five levels of Spanish. Knowing a foreign language can prove to be both personally and financially rewarding. Certainly, travel abroad is enhanced by a knowledge of languages, but that second or third language can also be the vital skill needed for securing a job.

1. Language class requires the attention of Cheryl Worth, Vaughn Masterson, and others.
2. Students of foreign language listen before speaking.

General Studies Covers Basics

The general studies department provides a series of basic courses required for graduation. Designed for sophomores, the classes include career guidance, in which students first begin looking toward life after graduation, and health education, which provides instruction in fulfilling general personal health needs and avoiding unnecessary illness and disease. Driver education is a must before a student may gain admission to driver training and behind-the-wheel experience prior to applying for the all-important driver's license.

Practical Classes Serve Many Jordan Students

Classes in industrial education range from bricklaying to electronics, from drafting to auto shop. Skilled students in these programs may attain entry-level ability for employment. Others take the courses to facilitate success with their hobbies or to be prepared for everyday maintenance matters they will encounter living on their own. Whatever the reason that students elect industrial ed offerings, the department performs a valuable practical service for Jordanites.

Math Offers Courses For All Levels of Need

The mathematics department, headed by Mr. Joe Kurey offers numerous levels of study ranging from general math to precalculus and computer programming. Keeping up with today's expeanding needs, the department is expanding, too. In addition to a second year of computer programming, consumer math is expected to be added to the curriculum in 1982-83. For the past three years a math lab, directed by Ms. Amy Dominetta, has added to the department's offerings by zeroing in on students' weak skill areas. Unfortunately, due to federal cuts in school funding, this service will now be phased out.

Musical Potential Explored

Mr. Philip Wyatt heads the music department in providing students with opportunities to explore their artistic potentials. Choices include band, jazz ensemble, orchestra, and a variety of choral groups. The freedom for Jordanites to express themselves through instrumental and vocal music has added to school spirit through performances at rallies and games and to community interest through such excellent presentations as the annual Evensong and spring concert. A special high point for Mr. Wyatt this year was acting as one of the directors in the All-District Music Festival.

Every student is required to take three years of general physical education unless he or she is involved in team sports, pep squads, or ROTC. Headed by Ms. Lorie Lindahl and Mr. Leonard Stewart, the p.e. department offers activities ranging from swimming, badminton, tennis, and volleyball to weight training, basketball, and softball. In addition, Mr. Jose Campo and Mr. Mike Ono joined the staff to coach the newly resurrected wrestling teams. Jordan's Panthers often found their physical exercise a welcome break from the mental gymnastics of such classes as physics and precalculus.

Science Curriculum Serves General, Specific Needs

The science department, chaired by Mr. Frank Blye, offers classes in the general science field, such as life science, human biology, earth science, and physical science. Selections in laboratory science that meet college requirements are biology, chemistry, physiology, physics, and zoology. In keeping with the times, the department now has an Apple computer to help college-bound students stay abreast of the fast pace of new scientific information, and pyhysiology students travel to UCLA Medical Center to witness openheart or similar surgery. Beginning and advanced classes in photography are also offered.

The social studies department, under the supervision of Ms. Donna Cukras, has many courses to offer to seniors. Seniors are required to take one year of social studies, of which one semester must be U.S. Government/American Political Behavior. They may choose from Sociology, Psychology, Psychology of Love and Marriage, Current Affairs, and World Problems in order to fulfill the second semester. Juniors, on the other hand, must take U.S. history as part of the requirements for graduation.

ROC/P Orients Students To Vocational Skills

The Regional Occupation Class/Program is designed to give students a chance to learn a vocational skill while still in school. Jordan is the site for six of these programs, ranging from air transportation to banking and finance. Some of the classes are taken at different sites in the community. Classes meet daily for two or three periods. For the remainder of the day, students work at jobs in the area. The program grants ten or fifteen credits per semester depending upon the course. Classes may be taken in the morning or the afternoon in most areas. This flexibility makes it possible for almost every student who chooses to fit it into his or her schedule.

JROTC Opens Road To Excitement, Challenge

This year's JROTC was as exciting and challenging as ever. Headed by Sergeant Ray Schilling and Colonel Edward Tighe, the program provided a better insight into Army procedures. The class is actually run by the students, who are given the opportunity to develop skills in first aid, map reading, marksmanship, rifle maneuvers, and compass reading. JROTC students were involved in out-of-school activities such as adventure training, camp-outs, and field trips. There were also regular competitions and parades, the annual federal inspection, the Military Ball, and the annual awards ceremony. This year's JROTC Panthers won first place in five out of nine events during inter-school competition again Poly, Millikan, Wilson, and Cerritos.

Being in JROTC does not necessarily mean recruitment for service after graduation. Most of those involved are in it for the discipline and are therefore encouraged to take charge of particular missions or assignments. Students are eligible to attain ranks either through service time or by taking a test.

Cat's Purr Continues To Earn Acclaim

The Cat's Purr, Jordan's student newspaper, is published approximately every two weeks by the advanced journalism class. The paper has won acclaim locally, statewide, and nationally. It was awarded a "First Class" ranking by the National Scholastic Press Association and has been rated "Outstanding" by the California P.R.E.S.S. Jordan's news staff has also been noted for producing more issues of its newspaper than any other school in the District.

This year's staff was led by Co-Editors Tom Wright and Anita Porter, together with News Editor Patrick Parks, Editorial Editor Carla Copeland, Feature Editor Tammy Vickers, Sports Editor Rob Thomas, and Assistant Editors Joel Sabalza, John Simpson, Paul Doty, and Chris Stumphy. Trailblazer Staff Combats Deadlines, Aims for Wide Coverage of All Activities

Layouts, photo schedules, deadlines, cropping, copy writing, deadlines, proofreading, typing, deadlines — so goes the life of a yearbook staff. No sooner is one deadline met than another looms. Besides these mechanical factors, yearbook production requires imagination and creativity so that the widest coverage possible is given to campus activities in the most effective way. This year's staff selected the Shakespearean theme "All the World's a Stage" in an effort to present the many roles assumed by Jordanites in the year 1982. In "getting its act together," the Trailblazer staff argued, cooperated, stayed up late nights, consumed countless McDonald's suppers, and worried a lot about producing a first-class record of Jordan in 1981-82.

Stage Crew Aids Productions Founds New Campus Club

Has there ever been a production number of some kind where a stage crew was not needed? Of course not! Enthusiastic and hard-working, this group of young men and women, under the supervision of Dave Barcliff, were responsible for the sets, lighting, sound, and props for stage productions and at all the rallies and sports activities, assemblies, and graduation. They spent many after-school hours, for example, constructing and painting scenery for the annual dance show. Their highlight for this year was the new and expensive dimmer board and lighting system which took months to install. With it the crew could control each and every light and create variations of color and brightness when necessary.

Stage crew also founded a club called Production Services and won first place at Homecoming for having the best booth.

Advisory Council Gives Principal Student Input

With this year's new principal came a new group of students, a group whose roles included giving Mr. DuBois feedback on new policies and serving as extensions of his senses. The Principal's Student Advisory Council was composed of seventeen students from every grade level. Although a council, it was not a decision-making body. It met once a month, and during those times the members expressed the Jordanites' general opinions about different issues such as the new tardy and truant policy. The members were chosen for their active participation in promoting Jordan's image and for having taken part in general school activities. Together they formed a kind of human relations committee through which the students were not only seen, but also heard.

Students Opt for Special Poly Magnet Programs

A number of students for whom Jordan is the home school have opted to participate in programs offered at Poly High that take them south on Atlantic for their morning schedules. Three such "magnet" programs are Program for Additional Curricular Experiences (PACE), Center for the Visual and Performing Arts, and Medical Occupations. PACE represents a strenuous academic curriculum which competitively attracts students from all Long Beach high schools. To enter the program one must meet requirements of grade point average, test scores, attendance, and conduct as well as securing a counselor's recommendation and writing an acceptable essay. Prospective students for the Arts Program must demonstrate their abilities in front of a panel of judges and must submit a portfolio before being accepted. The Medical Occupations Center is the only one of its kind in the district and offers practical professional preparation in this field. Jordan's PACE students are also active on our campus, participating in sports and clubs and maintaining their Panther identity.

Long Beach Teachers Honor Jordan's Fran Anderson

Jordan's elective English department chairperson Ms. Fran Anderson was honored in February with a "Golden Apple Award" from the Teachers Association of Long Beach in recognition of her outstanding contributions to education in our district. Ms. Teledo Johnson and Ms. Judy Powell nominated their colleague for the award, not only because of her teaching expertise but also for her support of her fellow teachers in her role as department chair. A special aspect of the recognition was that it came as a complete surprise to Ms. Anderson. "It got rather complicated," said Ms. Johnson, "but we managed to convince her that I was receiving the honor so that she would come to the meeting where the award was given!" Cat's Purr staff members Carla Copeland, Temple Foreman, Miguel Gil, and Tami Vickers were a part of the ceremony, introducing the award with a skit and presenting Ms. Anderson with a bouquet of flowers from the advanced journalism class. Besides acting as advisor to the Cat's Purr, Ms. Anderson teaches American Literature. She taught at Hill and Jefferson before coming to Jordan.

Teachers Are People, Too!

Working on the sometimes hard to believe theory that teachers are people, too, Trailblazer Academics Editor Lucinda Kennedy sought this year to learn more about Jordan's faculty through a teacher survey. As a result, we now know that: Mr. Don Moore once swore in German only to find to his embarrassment that one of his students understood him; Ms. Nancy Gomez's temporary cap on a front tooth flew off and out as she was bawling out a student; and one time Ms. Toby Jamieson omitted a letter from the word "shirt" and mispronounced it loudly, making it an obscene word. Ms. Lori Lindahl recalled the student who vomited on her open roll book just after asking to go to the nurse. Mr. Neil VanSteenbergen described a special April Fool's Day at Millikan: "Somebody called me out in the hall for a few minutes during class. While I was in the hall, all of the students climbed out the windows, and I returned to an empty room! I loved it!" We learned further that Mr. Len Stewart used to be a captain in the Marines, Ms. Nancy Cunningham worked in retailing at Bullock's and Buffum's, Mr. Tom Canton put himself through school by working as a gas station attendant and custodian, and Mr. Iver Rustuen took up teaching because of "an interest in working with youth," even though he took a cut in pay from his part-time job as a milkman. Finally, Mr. Glenn Koons, who describes Jordan as "a veritable United Nations," says he decided to teach for two reasons: "A. I wanted to teach historical truth; and B. I wanted to be an actor, and I could ham it up in class!"

Robert - the truth is not just in your work. Even the military has a Commander-in-chief. Read John 3:16. You have the drive (if you don't flake out) to serve both! K.G. Koons

No truancies in the Marines please. The Russians would love that!

New wrestling coach Mr. Jose Campo sails Hobie cats, works at body building, and enjoys cooking. His most embarrassing moment this year was when the Yankees lost, and Mr. Meinhardt posted an old Yankee hat and the news headlines over his desk.

In her spare time Ms. Lynn Fielding reads, collects coins and rides motorcycles. She spends her summers "cleaning house" and traveling and once climbed the Great Wall of China.

A former nun who "left the Catholic, white world to experience the "real world," Ms. Marie Tollstrup once received a 100-pound bag of cement from a creative writing class that decided to take literally her admonition to be "concrete" in their use of images.

The academic part of the life of a student fills the bulk of his or her day and, especially around test time, sometimes the better part of the night as well. It's all a piece of the action of preparing for whatever the future may hold. And for all of the day-to-day frustrations of keeping up with papers, reading, quizzes, and lectures, the classes that filled the days of 1981-82 will ultimately find their way into fond memories of being a student at Jordan.

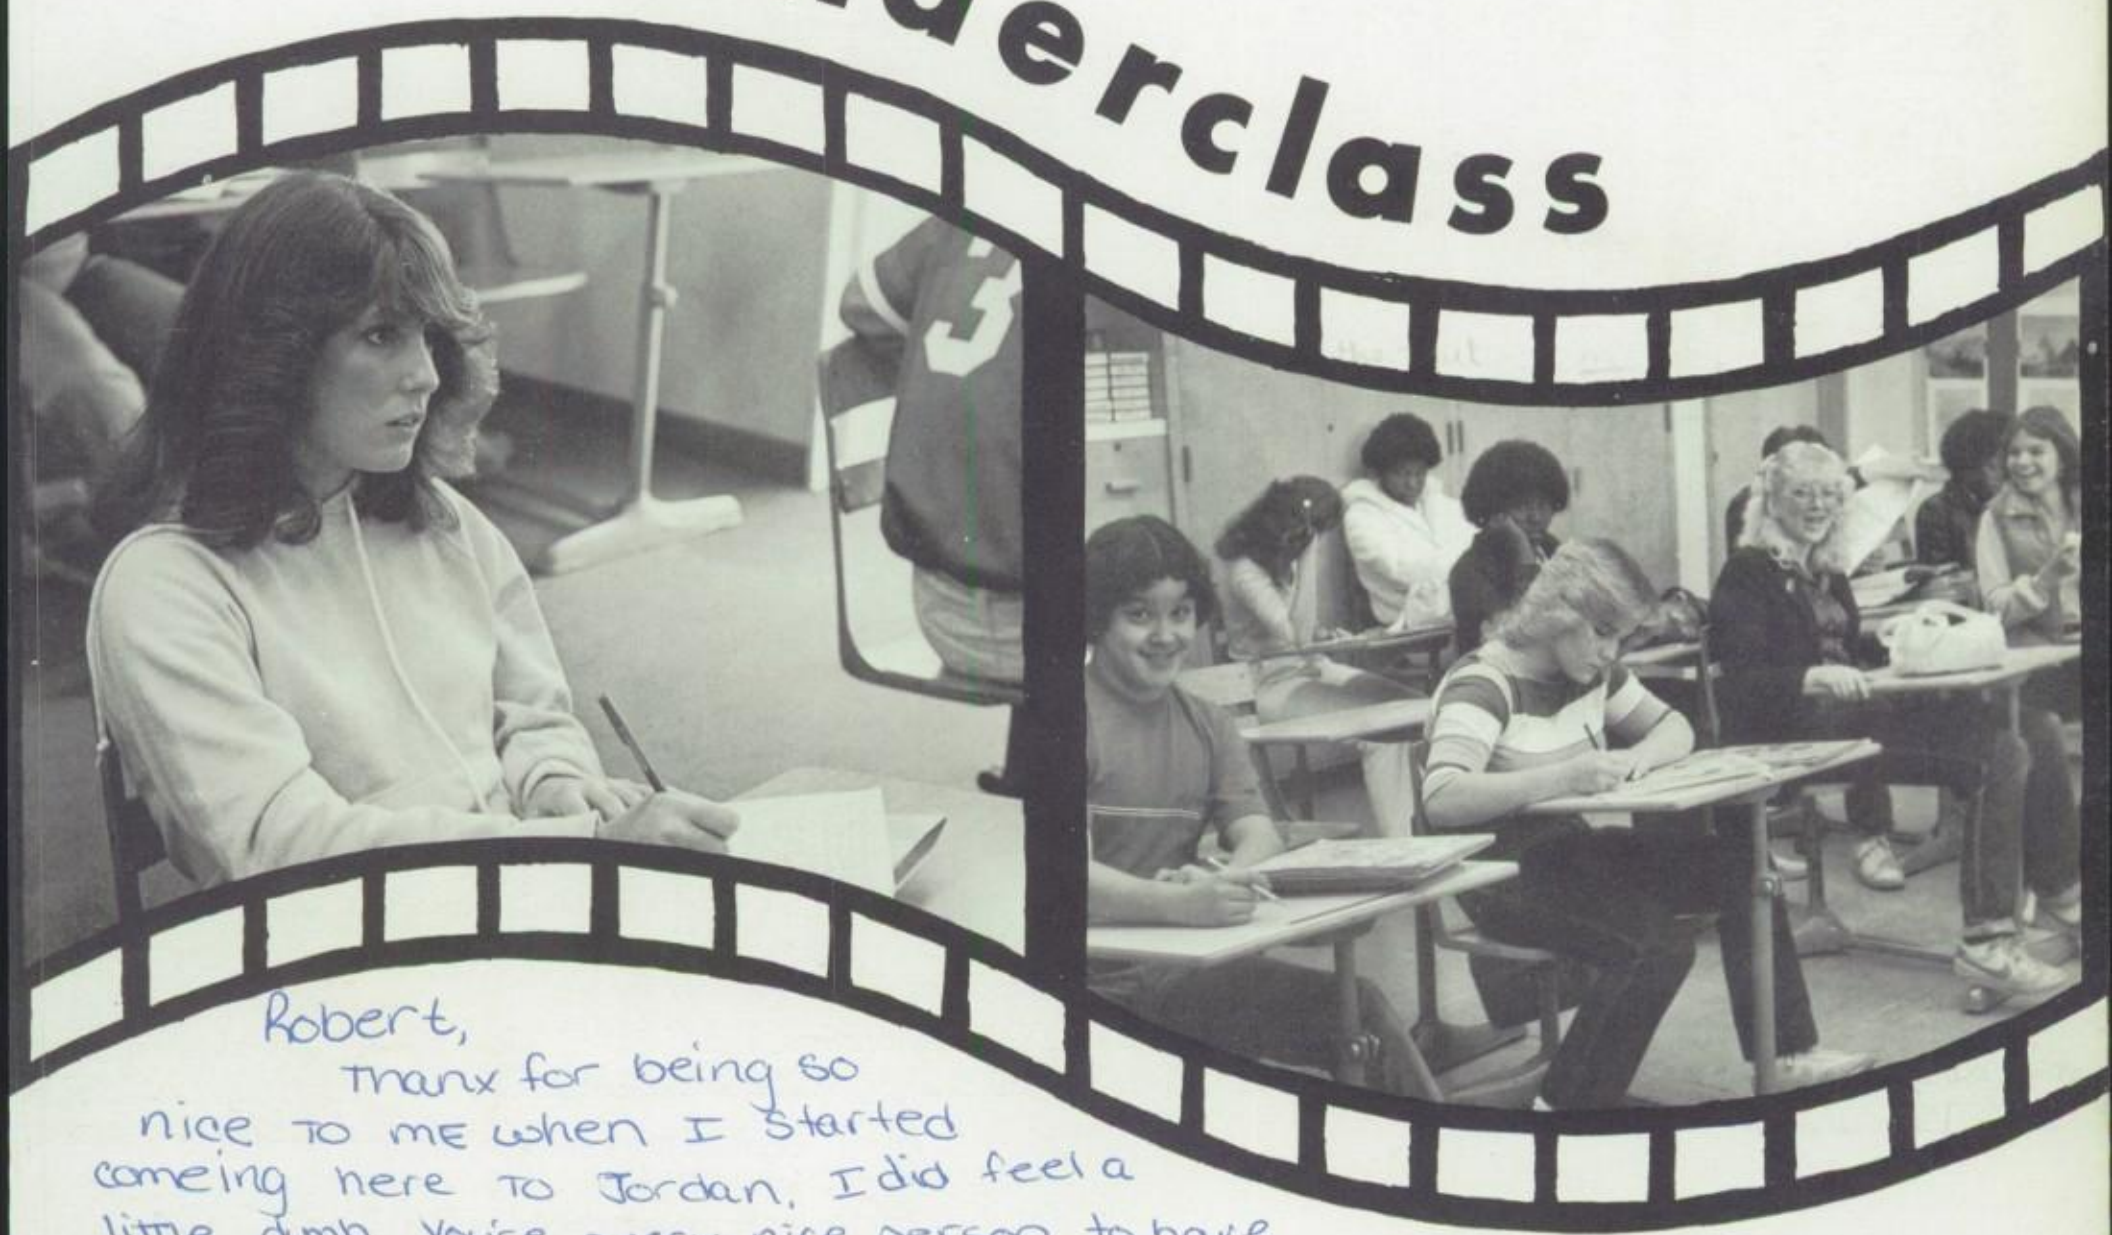

To Robert -
Best Wishes

Sophomores, Juniors Adjust To New Roles at Jordan

Just like hundreds of undergrads before them, this year's juniors and sophomores have adjusted well to their roles as either new-comers or middle people. For juniors, there are familiar faces around campus now, some friends and some just acquaintances. For sophomores, the new kids on the block, strange surroundings and hundreds of new faces gradually have become more comfortable as remembered faces from junior high appear around the corners or in the hallways. For both classes, the year is now a memory. For the Class of '83, it's on to being at the top of the heap as seniors. For the Class of '84, Act One has just ended, and Act Two, junior year, is only months away.

Roses Come Up For Band Members

Jordan band members K.C. Dunbar, Charles Rasmussen, and Bob Hanna were all invited to play in this year's Rose Classic Honorary Band. They tried out among 200 other local Southern California band members to make the squad of 140 total marchers.

To prepare for the Rose Parade, all band participants were required to be up at 6:00 a.m. in the morning during Christmas vacation for the long ride to Pasadena. Getting ready for the long hike down Colorado Boulevard, they marched four miles every day on an abandoned freeway.

According to Bob Hanna, "The parade seemed to last forever, and my feet were killing me, but when it was all over, there wasn't one of us that didn't feel good about what we had just done."

The Honorary Band also performed in a march through Disneyland, a special band festival, and a Victory Park performance which was held the day after the Rose Parade.

Feature subject Huguette "Yogi" Pelletier reacts to questions posed by Trailblazer interviews.

Pelletier Bursts onto Jordan Sports Scene

Huguette Pelletier, or "Yogi" as she is generally known, is an exceptional young athlete. As a sophomore she has exploded into the Jordan sports scene by playing varsity on every team she has gone out for: volleyball, basketball, and softball. Asked how she feels about being among the handful of sophomores that make it on a varsity team, Yogi commented, "It seems easier because if I make mistakes, I can always use the excuse of being a sophomore!" Women's Basketball Coach Lorie Lindahl has said of Pelletier: "She's got the right attitude towards the sport. She was among the few that came in in the morning to practice."

Outside of school Yogi enjoys sailing, backpacking, skiing, tennis, and, like most young people today, she is a computer game freak. (Her favorite is "Asteroids.") She says the greatest influence on her life has been her entire family. "They're all outdoors people." Mr. and

Mrs. Pelletier attend every one of her games, and her brothers and sisters come when they can. Popular and well-liked, what else could Yogi be? Well, she maintained a 4.0 grade point for first semester and was a member of the math team. As a whole, she might be considered a "jock-of-all-trades, the All-American kid." As Juli Myers said of her teammate, "No one in their right mind wouldn't like Yogi!"

Volleyball Nets CIF Berth

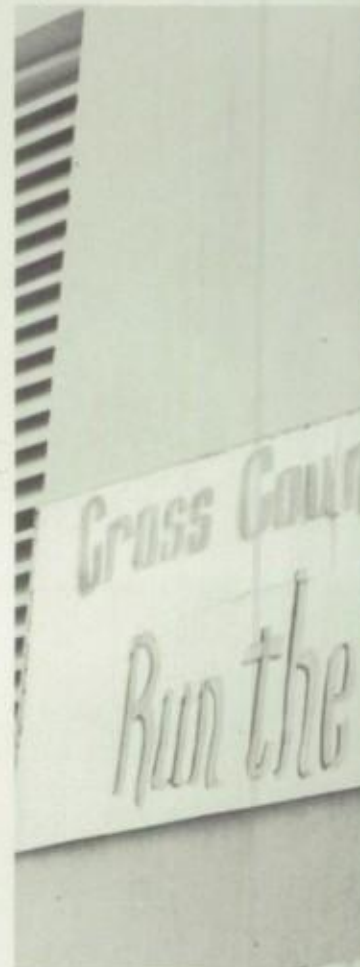

Varsity volleyball provided the high excitement of the fall sports season as the team capped an undefeated Moore League season with two wins in CIF play-off action. Defeating Lakewood for the second time in its last regular season game to go 14-0 overall and 10-0 in league play, the team went on to breeze past Simi Valley and put away Colton before being stopped by the tough second-seeded Royal High volleyballers. Pictured above with Coach Olive Boot, the team celebrates the close of Moore League competition.

Within a group highly credited for its work as a unit, four team members received special league recognition. Named All-League were team captain Julie Myers and sophomores Huguette "Yogi" Pelletier and Debbie Valentovich. Setter Diane Moore gained Honorable Mention. "Our tremendously successful season was due to a total team effort," said Coach Boot. "The defensive play was outstanding, and the offensive play was varied and strong." With four sophomores having gained starting status and juniors Myers and Moore returning, speculation has run high that 1982 could be just as exciting a season as this year's.

Varsity Volleyball Spikes Moore Opponents

10-0 Moore League — 14-0 regular season — 16-1 through CIF playoffs: these statistics represent the most successful volleyball season in Jordan's history and mark the first time that a Long Beach team has won the Moore League championship with an undefeated record. Coach Olive Boot characterized the team as "well-balanced, with good depth on the bench" and emphasized their "heart," their determination, and their concentration on basic skills. Senior Princetta Gubany was the team's power hitter, while her classmate Becky Landis proved to be the hardest server.

Diane Moore distinguished herself as the team's key setter, while ambidextrous Julie Myers was the most versatile hitter. Sophs Debbie Valentovich and "Yogi" Pelletier stood out as setter/hitter and power hitter. The team's crucial depth was provided by senior Shelly Mink, juniors Tena Castillo and Tracy Gardner, and sophomores Chris Emmett and Cindy Hunter. Coach Boot expressed the feelings of the team and fans alike when she said simply, "It was a rewarding season for all of us."

Varsity Eleven Draws Blank As JV's Snare Moore Crown

In a heartbreaking and sometimes heart-stopping season that ended without a victory, Jordan's varsity football team lost five of its games by a total of 13 points (Bell Gardens 8-7, St. Francis 13-12, Wilson 31-29, Poly 6-3, and Millikan 21-15). The Millikan contest came down to the last play with the Panthers on the Ram two-yard line and three seconds left in the game. Quarterback Scott Elwell was stopped by the Millikan defense as time ran out. It was that kind of year.

A brighter picture was painted by the junior varsity, who brought home a Moore League title. After a slow pre-season start of one win and three losses, the team racked up four victories and allowed only one defeat (by one point) in league play. Coach Mike Ono, new to Jordan this year, cited hard work, dedication, and pride as the key ingredients in the j.v.'s season. Ben Figueroa, Ernest Howard, and Ron Thomas were among the offensive stand-outs, while Damon Walker, Troy Clarke and Jeff Russell exhibited defensive skills.

Placing third in the league, the sophomore team was 3 and 6 overall and 3 and 2 in Moore competition. In the last game of the season, the Panthers faced Lakewood for a share of the championship but lost to a fine Lancer team. Todd Johnson and Kenny Caleb were named Co-Most Valuable Players.

Despite a tough season, Leroy Howard has a smile for the camera.

Harriers Meet Challenge, Place Third in Moore League

Cross-Country is a demanding sport that requires year-round commitment. "Harriers" run three miles in their weekly competitions. These races present different challenges for the team, since the courses they run possess a variety of terrains.

Despite the physical strain, this year's cross-country team managed to place third in the league with a 3-2 record. The team was led by three All-Moore League runners: Harold Andoetoe, Erik Bonilla, and Michael Smallwood. The j.v. team finished fourth in the league with a 2-3 record. Leading this small, inexperienced, but dedicated group were Mike Mays, Robert Clark, and Gordon Bishop.

Girls' Varsity Team Shows Skills, Desire

This year's girls' cross-country team consisted of two runners, Lucinda Kennedy and Stephanie Buckle. Both girls had an outstanding year and should be two of the league's leading runners next year.

Kennedy was a trophy award winner at the Woodbridge Invitational, where over one hundred girls competed. Buckle finished fourteenth in the Moore League, although she was only a sophomore. Due to the fact that there were only two female runners this year, the team had to forfeit every meet.

The varsity women's tennis team won three matches, tied one, and lost two in practice. Their Moore League record was 7-3, putting them into a fourth place tie with Millikan. Both Jan McKenzie and Terri Siver made the All-City team and were two of the top players in Long Beach. In the city playoffs McKenzie placed fourth, losing in the semi-finals to the number one seed. Siver came in sixth. JV Finishes Fifth

The women's junior varsity tennis season appeared on the surface to be a tough and frustrating one as the team posted a 2-8 record in League play. Coach Karen Kaufman, however, characterized the year as "action-packed, with very closely fought games." Jordan's team included both returning players with a year's experience and rookies with no previous competitive record. Coach Kaufman praised the team for its unity and determination and said, "The girls built each other up both on and off the court." Shelly Anderson was voted most valuable player by her teammates.

Water Polo Teams Face Continued Frustration

Continuing a Jordan tradition of dedication despite tough odds, the water polo teams had frustrating seasons again this year. Both were relatively small in numbers and lacked the necessary depth. Yet both had their moments of excitement and good performances. The varsity ended the season 4-11, with the j.v.'s at 4-12. Walter Ozawa captained the varsity, whose Most Valuable Player was Dave DeVoe. Outstanding contributions to the junior varsity effort were made by Jeff Witt and Greg McDonald, the MVP's on that team. According to Coaches Kanarek and Peter, this year's sophomores were the most impressive Jordan's had in the past three or four years. Both men predicted that with these players continuing to improve, the school should have a CIF representative by the fall of 1983.

Fall Season Sports Provide Variety of Successes, Interest

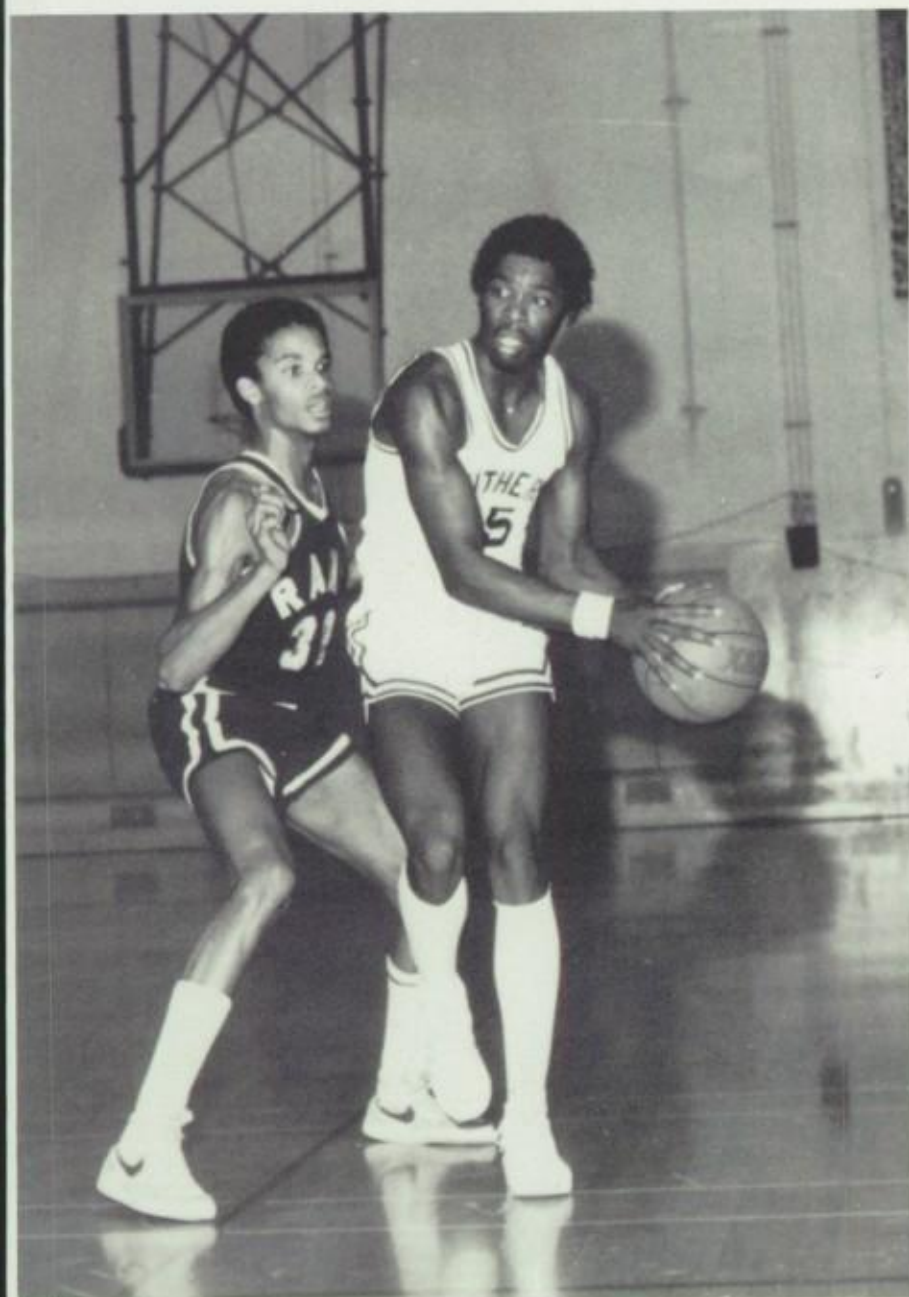

The variety of fall sports includes the outdoor efforts of football and tennis teams and the indoor battles of water polo and volleyball. This year's greatest fall successes were achieved in volleyball, women's tennis, and junior varsity football. But as usual, participation on any of the teams demanded hard work of both students and coaches.

Massey Heads Hoopsters

Most coaches would label a 5-20 season as a disaster, but Coach Ron Massey considers this season a valuable learning experience, not only for the team but for himself as well. Traditional patterns have been formed concerning the pre-season conditioning, practice sessions, fundamentals, and hopefully mental attitudes in the classroom. This will carry over into next year, making the program run smoother than it did this year. Coach Massey added, "Hats off to the seniors who stuck it out with the new coach and served as leaders for the underclassmen. I'm looking forward to working with the lettermen next season as we continue to work towards building a successful basketball program."

The Lady Panther varsity cagers weren't terribly excited over their 4-6 record, but the season did have highlights. For example, Shaundra McMichael and Gina Williams were named All-League, while Trenain Richardson received honorable mention. And as sophomore Yogi Pelletier put it: "One good sign was that we kept improving. All we needed was experience, and this year we got it!" With Richardson the only departing senior, both Coach Lori Lindahl and the rest of the team look forward to a good season next year. "We're not promising a great, undefeated year next year," said Pelletier, "but we are going to be a threat to a lot of teams!"

The team was coached by Karen Kaufman and included two seniors, Kathy Clay and Djuana Woods. The team's main strength was the determination and hustle of the individual players. Aquamen Find Themselves Swimming against Current Jordan's men's swim team found themselves swimming against the current in the 1982 season. As the smallest group of aquamen in recent memory, team members were forced to spread themselves thin covering all of the competitive events. As a result, the teams were overpowered by their opponents in a season that ended in losing record. Coaches Frank Kanarek and Richard Peter stressed that that record did not appropriately reflect the dedication of this band of swimmers, whose varsity stand-outs were Dan Delp, Cory Metzger, Walter Ozawa, and Long Truong. As always, hope was held out for the future, this year by such strong j.v. performers as John Foley, Jonathan Harbison, David Regan and Jeffrey Witt.

Practice action saw the varsity defeat Western, Los Alamitos, and Millikan, while the junior varsity lost only to Millikan. In first-round play both teams put away Millikan, Poly, and Compton, dropping one match each to Wilson. Final record for each squad was 9-1.

Doris Frazier and Christina Nuanez went on to win the Moore League doubles championship and represented Jordan at CIF. Battina Savant placed third in Moore singles competition. All three made the All-City and All-League first teams.

Horsehid ers Struggle In Tough Moore League

As the Trailblazer went to press, the baseball season was still in progress, with both varsity and j.v. teams struggling to meet the competition in a very tough Moore League. Reviewing the varsity's 6-15 record to date, Coach Dick Greene stated, "I'm pleased with their effort during practices and in all the ball games they've played. Everybody is giving their all."

Fighting to maintain third place, the j.v.'s were led by pitchers John Ramirez and David Thomas and outfielders Manuel Calderon and Bobby Love. All four are juniors.

Varsity Softball Aims For CIF Playoffs, Succeeds

Setting their sights on a playoff spot, Jordan's varsity softball team compiled a 6-4 season record and dropped Lakewood in the final league game to secure a CIF berth. Unfortunately, the Panthers fell 10-0 to a tough Irvine team in the first playoff round. "Though inexperienced, the team clearly demonstrated a lot of potential," commented Coach Joan White. Leading their efforts were team captain Becky McFall, pitcher Debbie Valentovich, and shortstop Huguette Pelletier. Coach White added, "This team is young but determined. This will give us an excellent start on next year's season!"

J.V.'s Suffer Injuries, Lack Experience

This year's j.v. softball team, made up mostly of sophomores with a few returning juniors and seniors, needed more experience in working together. The team also suffered a loss of players due to injury early on. Still there were players who showed good potential. They were led by captain Dawn Carpenter.

New teacher/coaches Mr. Jose Campo and Mr. Mike Ono this year rebuilt Jordan's wrestling program from no team last year to two squads of almost thirty wrestlers, four of whom went on to CIF competition. Coach Campo pointed to the varsity's inexperience as the primary reason for a "disappointing" 1-8 record but went on to describe the matmen as "really motivated." Top varsity team member was George Cisneros, with Paul Bastio a standout at the j.v. level. The coach described the j.v.'s as "pretty good, with a lot of hopefuls. Junior Ken Hayes earned a second place medal in the j.v. 141 category in Moore League finals. Spring Sports Provide Variety of Interest

Softball, baseball, gymnastics, track, tennis, badminton — with the spring semester comes this wide variety of team and individual performances in Moore League and class competitions. This year's excitement was provided primarily by the varsity softball and badminton teams in their CIF bids. But Jordan fielded enthusiastic, dedicated teams in all categories, and participants gained useful experience in competition and team play.

Activities

Keck Completes Fourth Year As Jordan Activities Director

A familiar face around campus, Activities Director Jim Keck, has assumed that role at Jordan for four years. He graduated from Jordan in 1964, having served as ASB president and played varsity football and track. He then went to Long Beach City College for two years and afterwards to Occidental College. He taught P.E. at Bethane Junior High School in Los Angeles and finally came to Jordan as a staff member in 1972. He was head track coach and taught science until 1978, when he took over Student Council. His primary job is to supervise student body activities and see to it that everything that happens in the school is worthwhile and pleasant to the entire student body. Activities Director is a position requiring patience, creativity, energy, and a lot of hard work. Trailblazer salutes Jim Keck for a job well done.

Varsity Yell Expands Repertoire Performing New Stunts, Mounts

With the addition of one male member, 1981-82 varsity yell was able to expand its repertoire and perform more difficult stunts as well as new mounts. As a result, the squad was the most exciting one in recent memory. During the summer yell members attended a cheerleading camp at Santa Barbara where they studied techniques and earned several awards for superior performance and spirit. Under the supervision of Coach Jonna Robinson, the squad entered competition at Arroyo High against a number of other local schools and placed in the finals. Dedication and year-round practices were the combination that led to the group's marked improvement. Working with yell members were mascots Mark Cunningham and Sheri Lamb. Their enthusiastic antics added interest to games and rallies alike.

The squad went to camp at Santa Barbara over the summer and earned several superior ribbons there. Head Denise Meddaugh led the group in performances at rallies and assemblies; all are looking forward to a chance to perform on the varsity squad next year.

Sponsor Lindahl "Retires," Lauds Present, Past Pepsters

After sixteen years as sponsor of Jordan's Pepsters, Ms. Lori Lindahl has chosen to step down from this position to allow more time for personal pursuits. Recapping her many seasons as coach for the song and flag squads, Ms. Lindahl said: "I've spent a long time doing a job that began — and has continued — based on love. The 239 girls I have worked with have given me the gifts of love, joy and happiness — plus a few gray hairs! I thank them all, especially my final group, for wonderful memories and memorable experiences."

In the decade-and-a-half that Pepsters have been under Ms. Lindahl's advisorship, they have worked hard to build and display pride in their group and in Jordan High. Their motto of "Purpose, Respect, Integrity, Dedication, and Enthusiasm" has been a constant goal as school representatives and in their dealings with each other. 1981-82 has been no exception. In their support for all of Jordan's teams, Pepsters' spirit and talent have been evident. Special events, such as homecoming decorating, parades, hoop painting, special performances, rallies, and parties, have been an added plus both for the school and for the girls themselves.

Loyal Fans Cheer Teams

Fanatics played an important part in Jordan's fall season. Parades, Half-time Shows, Rallies Give Pantherettes Time to Shine

Promoting school spirit by performing in parades, football halftime shows, and rallies is what Pantherettes is all about. In addition to these appearances, members of the drill team enter competitions with other schools. Their captains choreograph parade routines, cadences, and march patterns. Dance captains plan moves to fight songs and dance numbers for the half-time entertainments. This year the Pantherettes also ran a car wash and a bake sale, had a Knott's Berry Farm picnic and a Christmas party, and went out for a night of roller skating.

Choral Groups Voice Spirit

Under the direction of Mr. Alan Caddick, Jordan's choral groups gave voice to the spirit of the school and performed at their best at the annual Evensong, Vespers, and Commencements. Admission into the A Capella Choir was by permission of the instructor. Juniors and seniors could apply as well as selected sophomores on recommendation from previous instructors. The Vocal Ensemble was a select group open to students with exceptional ability. Most of the songs were arranged in four or more parts. Cecilian Singers consisted of students with an interest and qualification in singing. Members of the group had to be able to sing in the soprano and alto ranges.

Band, Tall Flag Add Pageantry To Events

The Jordan Panther marching band provided the musical background for this year's production of "All The World's a Stage." Besides playing at rallies and football games, the band traveled to and placed in competitions at Artesia and Montebello, where they took third places, and at the Cal Poly Pomona Half-Time Competition where they placed fourth. Four of the band's members — trumpeters Bob Hanna, Lon Dimmitt, K.C. Dunbar, and Charles Rasmussen — were selected to lead this year's Tournament of Roses Parade Band. Dunbar, Dimmitt, and Tom Wright made the All-District Orchestra, and Wright went on to make All-Southern California Honor Band.

Fantasy Becomes Reality for Deanna Joseph As Students Vote Her Homecoming Queen of 1982

It's a fantasy that all girls dream about at least once in their lives — that sometime, somewhere, someone will think you're beautiful enough to be a "queen." This particular dream came true for Deanna Joseph in late October as she was crowned Jordan's 1982 Homecoming queen. A Junior Princess in 1980, Deanna was still "really surprised" at her selection as queen. Queen Deanna is seen on the facing page in a formal portrait and (insets) as she awaits the announcement of the winner, reacts to the calling of her name, and stands before the Homecoming crowd in the crown and cape presented her by 1980 Queen Karen Mowry.

Homecoming '82

Participation Up, More Booths Open; Stage Crew, Band, VICA Take Honors

This year's Homecoming was one of active participation. There were more booths representing various school clubs than last year. Among the additions were the senior class' dunking booth and Thespians' "Haunted House." Although activities did not begin until noon, the actual set-ups were done at 6:00 A.M. With this year's theme being "Salute To Music," the booth decorations ranged from NHS' "Bagel On The Roof" to stage crew's bigger-than-life "Stereo Booth." At 2 p.m. a pep rally was held in the stadium with both the alumni and 1981-82 pep groups performing. As always, there was the judging of the best booth, and that honor went to stage crew, with band and VICA in the second and third positions. The big money-makers from this year's celebration were DECA and VICA, both collecting over two hundred dollars in profits.

Dance Students Perform "From L.A. to New York"

Participants in dance are a select group of students with dance training. The ultimate objective for dance members is to choreograph numbers for the annual show in March. Costumes were purchased from Art Stone of New York.

Rubik's Cube Takes Campus by Storm

The Rubik's Cube craze struck the campus this year with a vengeance. Everywhere one turned someone seemed to be struggling with the little devil. The Cube surfaced in class, at lunch, in the gym, in the halls during passing periods. True devotees participated in competitive "Cube-a-Thons." When all else failed, Cube fans could purchase the book Mastering Rubik's Cube. Like the hula hoop and pet rock of yesteryear, the Cube stirred nationwide interest and made a lot of money for its creators in the process.

Concertgoers Sport T-Shirts Proclaiming Favorite Groups

Everyone loves music, and that includes Jordan students. This year the fans showed their devotion to their favorite groups by purchasing albums and by attending live concerts. No one needed to ask which concert someone had been to because inevitably it was proudly displayed across his or her chest. Who could afford to buy a ten-dollar shirt after buying a twelve-dollar ticket? Who knows? But everybody was wearing them! The names ranged from Bruce Springsteen to the Beach Boys, Journey to the Jacksons, Rick James to the Rolling Stones, Jefferson Starship to Judas Priest, Tom Petty to Ted Nugent. And this is just a random sampling of the hundreds of rock, funk, soul, and punk bands whose shirts were in evidence.

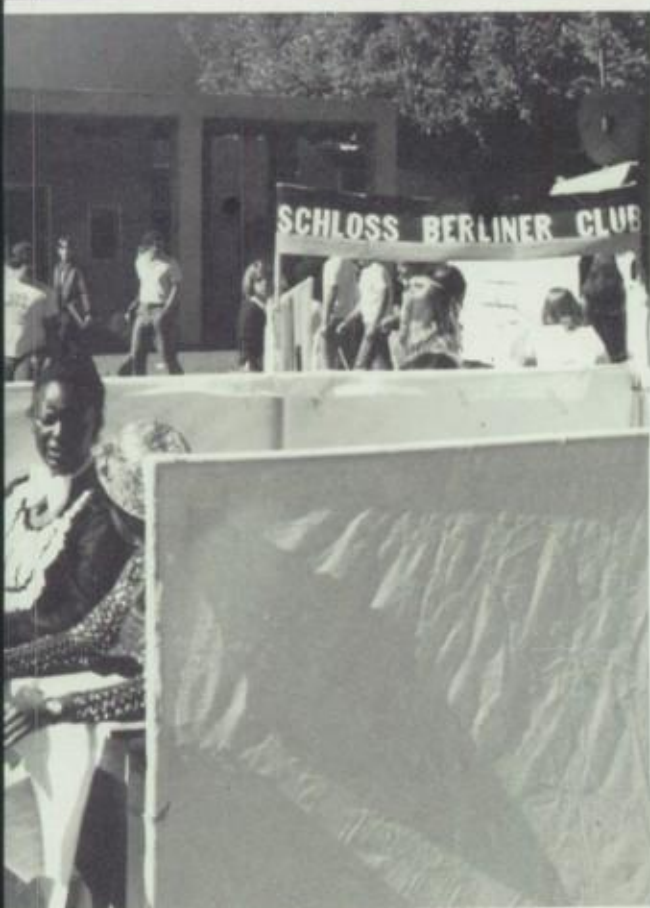

Clubs Promote Spirit, Provide Service, Friendship

Clubs to support teams, clubs to help others in need, clubs to pursue special interests, even a club to promote friendship — Jordan had them all in 1981-82. There were Webfoots supporting water poloists, Thespians supporting drama, Aquarians, Keywanettes, and Red Cross providing services to the community. There were Berliners enjoying their German and Shutterbugs pursuing their photography and many more. There was even a new club, Friends United, that specialized in bringing Jordanites together in a spirit of friendliness. And just about all of them participated in Homecoming, as can be seen on these pages.

NHS, CSF Recognize Academic Success

NHS — The National Honor Society spent the Majority of the year scheduling events for the benefit of the Jordan campus. Under the sponsorship of Sarah Carty and the leadership of President Temple Foreman, the club sold bagels at Homecoming and later, along with CSF, transferred some of its profits into the special fund to help cast the mold for the Medallion Award Plaque.

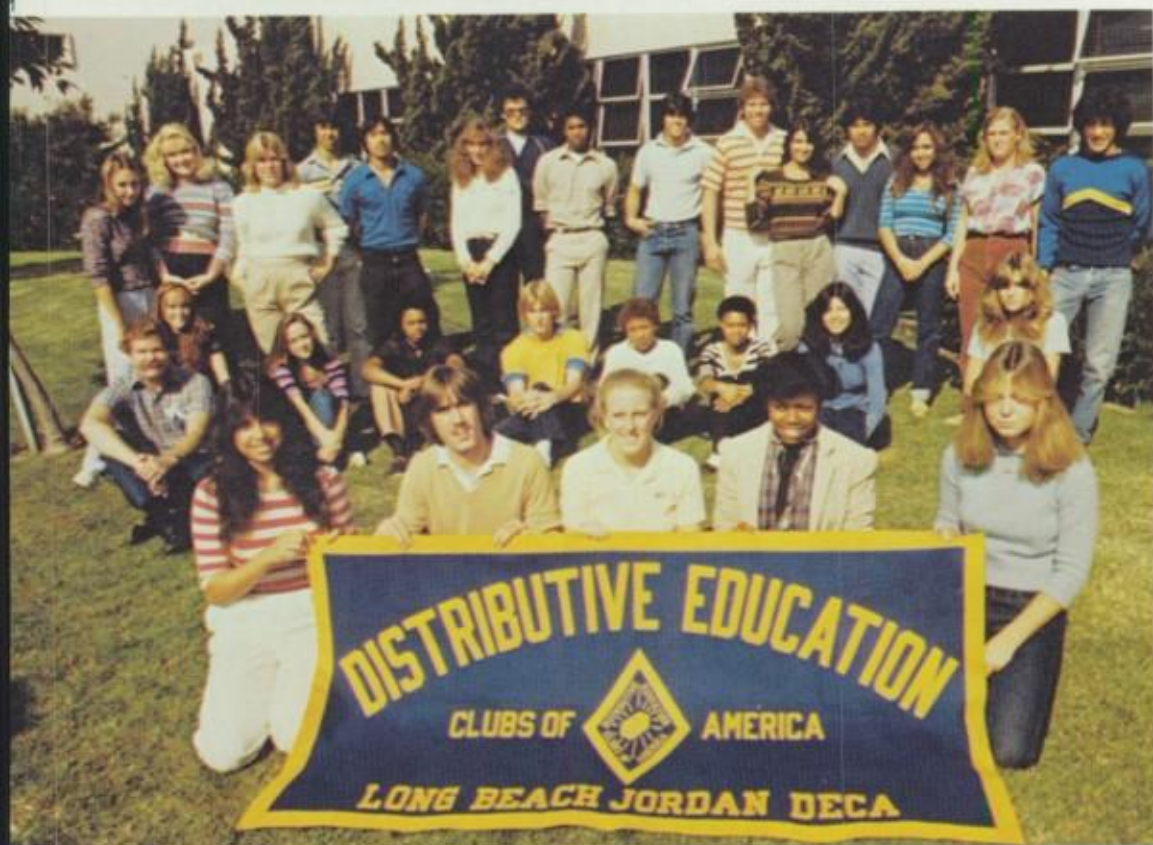

CSF — The California Scholarship Federation is a club composed of academically talented students. To qualify, each student had to have earned three A's and a B in four academic classes. No C's, D's, F's or U's were accepted. Under the supervision of Joseph Tucciarone, President Mildeed Reyes and Vice-President Rich Souddress organized a candygram sale and raised over two hundred dollars.

DECA, VICA Offer Work-Oriented Clubs

The purpose of the Distributive Education Clubs of America is to develop future leaders in marketing and distribution. The End

A black and white photograph of a person with dark hair, wearing a light-colored t-shirt and dark pants, sweeping a large, empty gymnasium floor with a long-handled broom. The gymnasium is filled with rows of empty bleachers that recede into the background. An "EXIT" sign is visible above a doorway in the upper right corner.

As the year draws to a close, we find ourselves with the inevitable task of separating our ways. Some shall be friends perpetually; some shall never again cross paths. Nevertheless, we will all look back and see the pleasures and pain we shared throughout the years. These three years at David Starr Jordan High School shall give us everlasting memories of friendship and good times (parties) and, most of all, the background to allow us to become that which we are capable of becoming. The future holds the key for each and every one of us to succeed. If we keep in stride with our goals, we shall succeed and find that these twelve or thirteen years were not served in vain.

The 1982 Trailblazer staff has captured you and provided you with a yearbook full of memories that can be reminisced about throughout the years.

Editing a yearbook is no piece of cake. The many hours spent after school, at home, at McDonald's, and at Shakey's were to make this yearbook the best possible. Many thanks are owed to someone who carried more responsibility than any of us, Mrs. Powell, our advisor.

And so we present the Trailblazer, the 1982 Jordan yearbook. We hope that you are pleased with our efforts so you can be proud to say, "This is the book of '82, for you."

Rob.

Congratulations! You finally made it. Twelve years of school have been tough, but it's one experience you never forget. You've been a great friend and a great brother as well. Thank you for your love and understanding. You've helped me so much the last two years. I hope one day I can repay you. We've had so much fun together. Remember the time you & Jane / me & Darren went to the beach. "Best of Times," memories. I hope you and Jane's plan and dreams come true for the future. You two ^{will} make such a ^{great} couple. Never lose each other's love and trust. Stay happy with what you both have. L-O-V-E !!!
